Executive Director of the Alliance for Education and Liberty (formerly known as Conservative Alliance for Community Growth), a nonprofit organization in Las Vegas, established 13 years ago. As a native of Las Vegas, my roots are deep, and I care about my family, friends, and neighbors in the Las Vegas community. The Alliance is committed to establishing meaningful partnerships and productive working relationships with residents, schools, businesses, and community leaders, primarily in West and North Las Vegas. Through volunteerism and community involvement, our goal is to advance time tested values and principles of self-reliance, independence, and taking personal responsibility for oneself. We have challenged the status quo by working in these neighborhoods to bring about a shift in the old ways of thinking and problem-solving in our community. We work to advance and promote alternative solutions that have proven to benefit communities all around our country and believe the answers to the problems can no longer be the responsibility of someone else. The Alliance works with organizations that want to promote growth and opportunity for others to be successful and prosper from what this great nation has to offer and work to bridge the gap between those who have opportunity and access and those who for whatever reasons do not.

The Alliance also focuses on education in the classroom and the Las Vegas community, about the value and importance of the United States Constitution. Current projects the Alliance supports are the 5th grade Constitution Lectures Series, Middle School Lessons in Liberty, annual Constitution Day Celebrations, LEX vs REX Project, and Community Voter Education Forums.

I am a founding member of the Committee to Form, former Governing Board Member and Treasurer of a State Public Charter School, Founders Academy of Las Vegas. Founders Academy is one of 17 Hillsdale College Barney Charter School Initiative schools to feature a classical education curriculum that promotes civic virtue and moral character.
